Hidden potential: the science of achieving greater things

New York, NY : Viking, 2023.

Subjects: Achievement motivation. Motivation (Psychology). Personality development.

Summary: We live in a world that's obsessed with talent. We celebrate gifted students in school, natural athletes in sports, and child prodigies in music. But admiring people who start out with innate advantages leads us to overlook the distance we ourselves can travel. We underestimate the range of skills that we can learn and the amount of ground that we can gain. This book offers a new framework for reaching aspirations and exceeding expectations. It's not about being a genius-growth depends more on developing character skills than cognitive skills. The character skills that propel progress include the proactivity to absorb and adapt to new information, the courage to embrace discomfort, and the determination to find the beauty in imperfections. Many writers have chronicled the habits of superstars who accomplish great things. This book breaks new ground by revealing how anyone can rise to achieve greater things.

Media literacy for citizenship: a Canadian perspective

Toronto, ON : Canadian Scholars, 2018.

Subjects: Case studies. Mass media--Canada. Media literacy--Canada.

Summary: This title takes a critical perspective on media literacy by demonstrating how the ability to analyze media messages is a fundamental component of engaged citizenship. The book explores mainstream media sources through ideology critique with a focus on deconstructing neoliberalism and its serious impact upon civil society, the environment, and democracy itself. Drawing on Canadian examples, the chapters offer case studies of how the media covers important contemporary topics such as climate change, war and terror, Indigenous issues, and an inclusive society. The authors also consider the burgeoning fake news phenomenon currently emanating out of the United States, and which finding its way to Canada. This text is written with the intention of fostering informed and media literate citizens.

Teaching digital kindness: helping students become more aware and accountable in their online lives

New York, NY : Routledge, 2024.

Subjects: Interpersonal communication--Moral and ethical aspects. Social media--Moral and ethical aspects.

Summary: Digital tools have a clear educational purpose, but how do we help students with the darker corners of the web? This book provides timely, much-needed advice for educators on how to teach students to handle the anger and divisiveness that pervades social media and that is impossible to ignore when using tech for other purposes. Author Andrew Marcinek provides strategies we can use to help students with issues such as navigating relationships; understanding digital ethics and norms; returning to a balance with screen time; reclaiming conversation; holding yourself accountable; creating a new digital mindset; and more. Throughout, there are practical features such as Pause and Reflects, Teachable Moments, and classroom activities and lesson plans, so you can easily implement the ideas across content areas and grade levels.

Suleyman, Mustafa

The coming wave: technology, power, and the twenty-first century's greatest dilemma

New York, NY : Crown, 2023.

Subjects: Artificial intelligence--Social aspects. Technological forecasting. Technology--Social aspects.

Summary: We are approaching a critical threshold in the history of our species. Everything is about to change. Soon you will live surrounded by AIs. They will organise your life, operate your business, and run core government services. You will live in a world of DNA printers and quantum computers, engineered pathogens and autonomous weapons, robot assistants and abundant energy. None of us are prepared. As co-founder of the pioneering AI company DeepMind, part of Google, Mustafa Suleyman has been at the centre of this revolution. The coming decade, he argues, will be defined by this wave of powerful, fast-proliferating new technologies. In The Coming Wave, Suleyman shows how these forces will create immense prosperity but also threaten the nation-state, the foundation of global order. As our fragile governments sleepwalk into disaster, we face an existential dilemma: unprecedented harms on one side, the threat of overbearing surveillance on the other. Can we forge a narrow path between catastrophe and dystopia? This groundbreaking book from the ultimate AI insider establishes 'the containment problem' -- the task of maintaining control over powerful technologies -- as the essential challenge of our age.

Irving, Debby

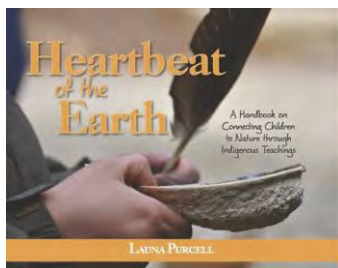

Waking up white: and finding myself in the story of race

Cambridge, MA : Elephant Room Press, 2014.

Subjects: Autobiographies. Irving, Debby. Racism--United States. United States--Race relations. White people--United States--Social conditions.

Summary: For twenty-five years, Debby Irving sensed inexplicable racial tensions in her personal and professional relationships. As a colleague and neighbor, she worried about offending people she dearly wanted to befriend. As an arts administrator, she didn't understand why her diversity efforts lacked traction. As a teacher, she found her best efforts to reach out to students and families of color left her wondering what she was missing. Then, in 2009, one "aha!" moment launched an adventure of discovery and insight that drastically shifted her worldview and upended her life plan.

Heartbeat of the earth: a handbook on connecting children to nature through Indigenous teachings

Salmon Arm, BC : Ancestral Ties Press, 2022.

Subjects: Ethnoecology. Indigenous Peoples in Canada. Indigenous philosophy. Nature study--Activity programs.

Summary: Nature is a place to both play and learn. The physical self is moving and active, the mental self is thinking and questioning, the emotional self is feeling and experiencing, and the spiritual self is connecting and thankful. We see what we have been taught to see. We love and respect our natural surroundings when we see ourselves as belonging to that community. This resource leads readers on a rich learning journey as they deepen their connections to nature and culture. The activities inside instill traditional teachings of respect, honour, resourcefulness, and humility in children

The economic case for LGBT equality: why fair and equal treatment benefits us all

Boston, MA : Beacon Press, 2020.

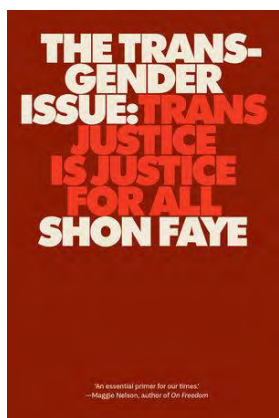

Subjects: Discrimination--Economic aspects. Gay rights--Economic aspects.

Homophobia--Economic aspects. Opportunity costs. Transaction costs.

Transphobia--Economic aspects.

Summary: In this title, the author offers some new ways of thinking to convert the many people who use their power to hurt LGBT people, whether in passing discriminatory laws, firing them from jobs, harassing them in school, beating them on the streets, failing to protect them from beatings, kicking them out of families, or depriving them of appropriate health care--in short, in excluding them from the core institutions that make it possible to live a good life. Understanding the economic cost of that homophobia and transphobia gives activists, businesses, development agencies, and policymakers a new tool that can help change lives.

306.768 F283

Faye, Shon

The transgender issue: trans justice is justice for all

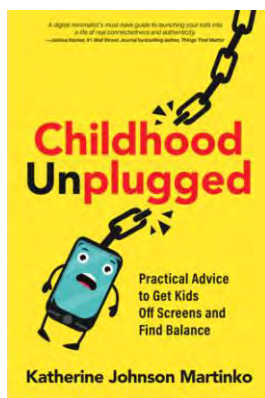

London, UK : Verso, 2022.

Subjects: Social justice. Transgender people--Social conditions. Transphobia.

Summary: In this brilliant introduction to trans politics, the author gives an incisive overview of systemic transphobia and argues that the struggle for trans rights is necessary to any struggle for social justice.

So often, Faye argues, trans people are understood as a "side issue," the subjects of a toxic and increasingly polarized debate which generates reliable controversy for newspapers and talk shows. This media frenzy conceals a simple fact: that we are having the wrong conversation, a conversation in which trans people themselves are reduced to a talking point and denied a meaningful voice. Faye uncovers the reality of what it means to be trans in a transphobic society. In this compelling study, she explores issues of class, family, housing, healthcare, sex work, the prison system, and trans participation in the LGBTQ+ and feminist communities. What she finds, ultimately, is that when we fight for trans liberation, we fight for a better world for us all.

Shizue's path

Toronto, ON : HarperCollins Publishers, 2023.

Subjects: Canada--Race relations--History--20th century--Juvenile literature.

Japanese Canadians--Forced relocation and internment, 1941-1949--Juvenile literature. Japanese Canadians--History--20th century--Juvenile literature. World War, 1939-1945--Japanese Canadians--Juvenile literature.

Summary: Framed as a conversation between a grandmother and the reader, this book follows the story of a young Shizue growing up in Canada against the backdrop of World War II. As the war worsens, so too does Shizue's position in Canadian society. Torn away from her elementary school and sent to an internment camp along with her family, Shizue looks to anyone who might speak truth to power—but she is met with silence. After the war, things only get worse for Shizue as Japanese-Canadians face the threat of deportation. Fortunately, the Canadians around Shizue are no longer silent. As various communities come together to protest this racist bill, Shizue learns first-hand how one individual can have a far-reaching effect on another's life.

Cheated: the Laurier Liberals and the theft of First Nations reserve land

Toronto, ON : ECW Press, 2023.

Subjects: Canada--Politics and government--1896-1911. Indigenous Peoples--Claims--History--20th century. Indigenous Peoples--Government relations--History--20th century. Indigenous Peoples--Land tenure--History--20th century. Indigenous reservations--History--20th century. Land settlement--Government policy--Canada--History--20th century.

Summary: You won't find the Ocean Man and Pheasant Rump reserves on a map of southeastern Saskatchewan. In 1901, the two Nakoda bands reluctantly surrendered the 70 square miles granted to them under treaty. It's just one of more than two dozen surrenders aggressively pursued by the Laurier Liberal government over a 15-year period. One in five acres was taken from First Nations. This confiscation was justified on the grounds that prairie bands had too much land and that it would be better used by white settlers. In reality, the surrendered land was largely scooped up by Liberal speculators -- including three senior civil servants and a Liberal cabinet minister --and flipped for a tidy profit. None were held to account. Cheated is a gripping story of single-minded politicians, uncompromising Indian Affairs officials, grasping government appointees, and well-connected Liberal speculators, set against a backdrop of politics, power, patronage, and profit. The Laurier government's settlement of western Canada can never be looked at the same way again.

Pricing the priceless: the financial transformation to value the planet, solve the climate crisis, and protect our most precious assets

Hoboken, NJ : Wiley, 2023.

Subjects: Climate change--Risk management. Environmental economics. Environmental policy--Economic aspects. Sustainable development--Finance.

Summary: This title captures financial recognition for what is otherwise never calculated in financial terms. Water meters only measure the cost of the water we use, not the value of having clean water in the first place, reflecting what goes out but not what goes in. But keeping water clean is a vital public service, surely an indicator of good governance and management. In turn, if capital markets reward coherent risk management and resource stewardship in higher credit ratings for public entities, then those entities can issue bonds or borrow long term against that value. In this sequence, pricing the priceless translates the natural capital of clean water into bankable collateral, as compared to short-term raw material, and extends measurable value today to immeasurable value tomorrow. Also, if the value of clean water or other natural assets then enters the financial ledgers of a public budget as key assets, then, by extension, sufficient public funds can be allocated to their protection. Once assets have a notable value, protecting them becomes logical and better understood by taxpayers, who might otherwise consider environmental protection as a dispensable frill, compared to paving roads. In this shift, overall public good becomes an asset, not a cost.

Meili, Ryan

A healthy future: lessons from the frontlines of a crisis

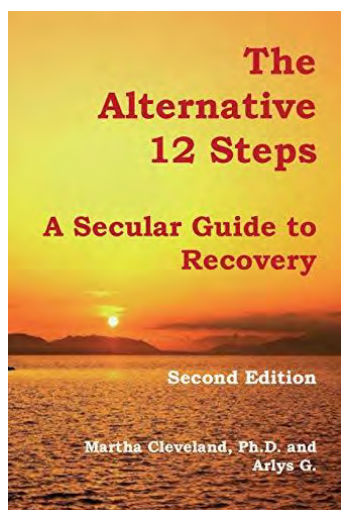

Vancouver, BC : Purich Books, 2023.

Subjects: COVID-19 (Disease)--Saskatchewan. COVID-19 Pandemic, 2020- --

Social aspects--Saskatchewan. Public health--Saskatchewan.

Summary: This account of the COVID-19 experience in Saskatchewan goes beyond pandemic memoir to draw lessons we can use to create a healthier future. Filled with moving stories of how COVID changed people's lives, Ryan Meili's deeply humane account of the pandemic draws on his unique experience as a doctor and the leader of Saskatchewan's official opposition during the first two years of the outbreak. This book reveals how the pandemic exposed problems in health care, elder care, education, and social supports-- and made them worse. And it also shows how we can learn from this to improve Canadians' health and well-being. This book offers a firsthand look at how the pandemic laid bare the shortcomings of Saskatchewan's--and Canada's-- public health response, with tragic results. It also provides an inspiring vision of what Canadians can learn from the pandemic to create a healthier and more equitable future.

The alternative 12 steps: a secular guide to recovery. Second edition

Hamilton, ON: AA Agnostica, 2014.

Subjects: Alcoholics Anonymous. Alcoholics--Rehabilitation. Twelve-step programs.

Summary: In this title, the authors show how the 12-Step program can be interpreted and worked by those who simply do not believe in an interventionist deity. At the same time the authors conscientiously maintain the intention and integrity of the program - its values, scope and depth. A chapter is devoted to each Step. The language is clear, engaging and personal. This is a unique, inspiring and helpful book for anyone - regardless of belief or lack of belief - who would like to work the 12 Step program.

Gottesfeld, Jeff

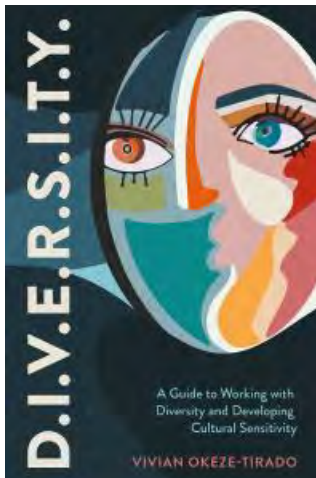

Food for hope

Berkeley, CA : Creston Books, 2023.

Subjects: Food supply--United States--Juvenile literature. Soup kitchens--United States--Juvenile literature. Van Hengel, John,--1923-2005--Juvenile literature.

Summary: John van Hengel started the world's first food bank in 1967 and went on to create a network of food banks through Feeding America. The concept of getting food that would otherwise be wasted to people who are hungry has spread throughout the world. Gottesfeld's warm text and Agatha's lively art shows that there's no shame in being hungry; the shame lies in how long it took for someone to figure out how to feed people! All it took was one person with a good idea to change things.

The drivers: transforming learning for students, schools, and systems

Thousand Oaks, CA : Corwin, 2024.

Subjects: Education--Aims and objectives. Educational change. Holistic education.

Summary: Everything we know as school leaders changed with COVID-19, ushering in an era of prolonged ambiguity. But as disconcerting as ambiguity is, Michael Fullan writes that it also creates an opportunity for positive change to happen. Ten years ago, Michael Fullan wrote a paper called "Choosing the Wrong Drivers," which addressed educators' mistaken focus on accountability, individual performance, technology, and fragmented work. The problem was that, while the paper proposed four alternative right drivers, it didn't go far enough in representing a theory school leaders could implement cohesively for system change. Now, Michael believes, the time is right and it is more imperative than ever that the right drivers be put to work in our schools. The right drivers are: Wellbeing and learning (essence) Social intelligence (limitlessness) Equality investments (dignity) Systemness (wholeness). In this new book, Michael makes the case for our focus to shift from individual, I-focused, and high-stakes testing to a more holistic, we-focused, feedback orientation that prioritizes the dignity of all of the people in our schools.

Lyiscott, Jamila

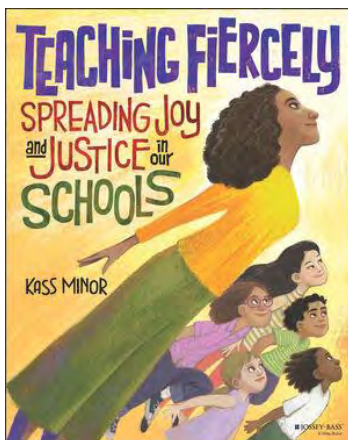

Black appetite. White food: issues of race, voice, and justice within and beyond the classroom

New York, NY : Routledge, 2019.

Subjects: Critical pedagogy. Culturally relevant pedagogy. Discrimination in education. Educational equalization. Racism in education.

Summary: This title invites educators to explore the nuanced manifestations of white privilege as it exists within and beyond the classroom. Renowned speaker and author Jamila Lyiscott provides ideas and tools that teachers, school leaders, and professors can use for awareness, inspiration, and action around racial injustice and inequity. Part I of the book helps you ask the hard questions, such as whether your pedagogy is more aligned with colonialism than you realize and whether you are really giving students of color a voice. Part II offers a variety of helpful strategies for analysis and reflection. Each chapter includes personal stories, frank discussions of the barriers you may face, and practical ideas that will guide you as you work to confront privilege in your classroom, campus, and beyond.

Teaching fiercely: spreading joy and justice in our schools

Hoboken, NJ : Jossey-Bass, 2023.

Subjects: Educational equalization. Social justice--Study and teaching.

Summary: This title delivers an inspiring and practical exploration of what it means to be a just teacher in a system that actively incentivizes injustice. The author will help readers surface their own unjust practices and that of their schools and gain insight into the roots of the problems so they can activate change. Using full color illustrations to engage the reader and highlight the vibrant life within each school community, the book will highlight potential antidotes, and it will give readers access to tools, resources, and community for a different kind of pedagogy. This book will help more people see that justice work is not only an everyday practice, it is also joy. It is not a special march or singular protest, it is the seconds we live and the air we breathe with the students we teach that creates the pathway to joyful, just, and humane school.

Teaching where you are: weaving Indigenous and slow principles and pedagogies

Toronto, ON : University of Toronto Press, 2024.

Subjects: Culturally relevant pedagogy. Culturally sustaining pedagogy. Curriculum change. Experiential learning. Indigenous Peoples--Education. Social justice and education.

Summary: Using the holistic framework of the Medicine Wheel, the authors illustrate the ways in which interdisciplinary thinking, a focus on experiential learning, and the thoughtful application of the 4Rs – Respect, Relevance, Reciprocity, and Responsibility – can bring us back to the principle of teaching people, not subjects. Bringing forth the ways in which colonialism and cognitive imperialism have shaped Canadian curriculum and consciousness, the book offers avenues for the development of decolonial literacy to support the work of Indigenizing education

Trans children in today's schools

New York, NY : Oxford University Press, 2023.

Subjects: Education--Parent participation. Inclusive education. Sexual minorities in education. Teacher-student relationships. Transgender people--Education.

Transgender people--Social aspects.

Summary: For every transgender child, there is a school principal desperately asking, 'How do we (or can we even) include trans children in our school?'. In this book, Aidan Key asks us to turn this question around to consider instead 'How do we create a safe, inclusive, and healthy learning environment for any child?' When we ask that question, the onus is no longer on that child or their parents to figure out the answers but is instead the shared responsibility of our society.

Student success through micro-adversity: a teacher's guide to fostering grit and resilience by celebrating failure and encouraging perseverance

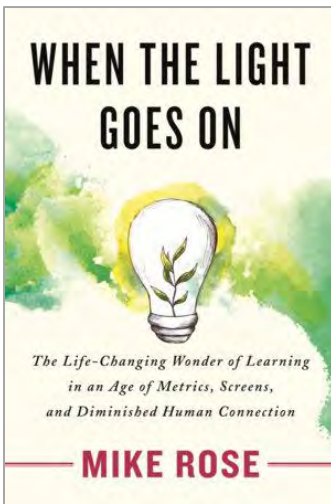

Berkeley, CA : Ulysses Press, 2021.

Subjects: Motivation in education. Resilience (Personality trait) in adolescence.

Resilience (Personality trait) in children.

Summary: One in four children have witnessed or experienced a traumatic event by the age of 16 that can affect behavior and learning. Fortunately, educators of all grade levels can inspire resilience and grit that helps students adapt to change and overcome hardship with simple everyday activities. This book offers a breakthrough method for building community and empowering your students with a new strategy: micro-adversity. Micro-adversities in the classroom can be actionable activities, like trying to solve a puzzle that is intentionally missing a few pieces, or building emotional intelligence with conversation starters. By experiencing small failures, students learn to overcome them and thrive. Written by two teachers, one a former US Army Ranger, this method combines the extensively trained military perspective with the important foundations of trauma-informed education.

Critical race theory and its critics: implications for research and teaching

New York, NY : Teachers College Press, 2023.

Subjects: Critical race theory. Discrimination in education. Multicultural education. Racism in education.

Summary: What and who is behind the attacks on Critical Race Theory? Why are attacks happening now, and what can be done about them? In Critical Race Theory and its Critics, Francesca López and Christine Sleeter provide readers with an overview of today's controversy, contextualizing the immediate precursors to the attacks on critical race theory and other equity-focused approaches in schools, as well as the organized reaction by conservative think tanks to undermine equity efforts. Contrary to claims by critics of critical race theory, research supports addressing racism in the classroom as part of a broader effort to ensure that all children thrive. Today's attacks, while new in form, are not new in substance and purpose, as an historical account of parallel efforts aimed at undermining equity shows. Given the recursive nature of attacks and the extent to which they have eroded policies aimed at eradicating systemic inequities, Critical Race Theory and its Critics concludes with evidence-based recommendations on messaging, organizing, and sharing of research.

Making coaching matter: leading continuous improvement in schools

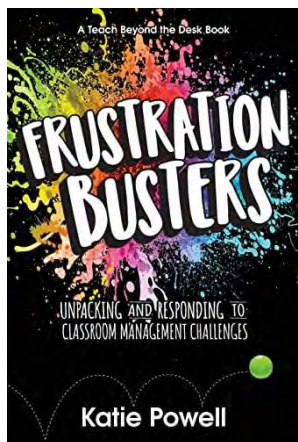

New York, NY : Teachers College Press, 2023.

Subjects: Educational change. Educational leadership. Mentoring in education.

School improvement programs.

Summary: Chasing improvement, districts and schools count on coaching to promote individual learning and organizational change. Coaching is currently a popular-and multifaceted-instrument for educational improvement. But coaching is often loosely defined, weakly supported, and, ultimately, underutilized. Bridging research, theory, policy, and practice, this book explains how to make coaching matter. Specifically, it offers insights so that educational reformers and leaders can strengthen the structures and activities of coaching by weaving them with the improvement strategy and centering equity. The book illuminates and illustrates how to assemble infrastructure and create conditions so that coaching advances change in robust, sustaining, and equitable ways. In particular, it highlights the role of: leaders' clear framing of coaching, equity, and strategy; professional learning opportunities on coaching; and continuous improvement to refine coaching.

Sexual orientation equality in schools: teacher advocacy and action research

Cham, Switzerland: Palgrave Macmillan, 2021.

Subjects: Discrimination in education--Australia--Prevention. Sexual minorities in education--Australia. Sexual minority students--Australia. Teachers--Training of--Australia.

Summary: This book explores how to help teachers become better advocates for sexual orientation equality in secondary schools. Examining this issue through the lens of qualitative emancipatory action research, a group of Australian teachers embarked on a journey of teacher advocacy. Critical theory has long highlighted teachers as key players in either challenging dominant social narratives, or else perpetuating oppressive systems of power through traditional forms of education.

Despite this important role, the life stories of teachers, which contributed to the development of their beliefs and behaviours about sexual orientation are rarely considered in the development of anti-discriminatory policy, designing the curriculum and most importantly, in teacher training. This book suggests and frames a model for advocacy, whereby teachers engage with their personal beliefs about sexual orientation, with their role as a teacher, and commit to advocacy through action by promoting student safety, challenging heteronormative narratives and role modelling compassionate behaviours in their school environments

Nurturing primary readers in grades K-3: reading instruction centered in students' social emotional needs

New York, NY : Routledge, 2023.

Subjects: Affective education--Case studies. Critical pedagogy. Reading (Elementary)--Social aspects--Case studies.

Summary: Weaving together reading pedagogy and social emotional learning (SEL) frameworks, this text presents an integrated, research-based approach to reading instruction grounded in instructional and collaborative strategies that address students' social emotional needs. The text features real stories from the classroom to invite readers to learn alongside the students, teachers, families, and professionals as they experience journeys of growth. The authentic case studies cover best practices in reading instruction in a way that centers students, promotes the whole child, and supports reading growth. Following a cyclical framework—discovering, nurturing, growing—each chapter address typical student reading needs and explains the role of collaborative relationships in effective instruction. Through the medium of storytelling, readers gain profound insights into key topics, including teaching multilingual students, phonological awareness, reading fluency, and more. Accessible and comprehensive, this book steers away from a prescriptive recipe for instruction but rather leaves readers with an effective framework for incorporating data-based decision-making, collaboration and research-supported literacy practices to foster each students' social and emotional skills in the classroom.

Grading for growth: a guide to alternative grading practices that promote authentic learning and student engagement in higher education

New York, NY : Routledge, 2023.

Subjects: College teaching. Grading and marking (Students).

Summary: This book offers a comprehensive introduction to alternative grading, beginning with a framework and rationale for implementation and evidence of its effectiveness. The heart of the book includes detailed examples - including variations on Standards-Based Grading, Specifications Grading, and ungrading -- of how alternative grading practices are used in all kinds of classroom environments, disciplines and institutions with a focus on first-hand accounts by faculty who share their practices and experience. The book includes a workbook chapter that takes readers through a step-by-step process for building a prototype of their own alternatively graded class and ends with concrete, practical, time-tested advice for new practitioners. This book is intended for faculty interested in exploring alternative forms of learning assessment as well as those currently using alternative grading systems who are looking for ideas and options to refine practice.

An age of accountability: how standardized testing came to dominate American schools and compromise education

New Brunswick : Rutgers University Press, 2024.

Subjects: Academic achievement--United States--History. Education--Standards--United States--History. Educational accountability--United States--History. School improvement programs--United States--History.

Summary: This book highlights the role of test-based accountability as a policy framework in American education from 1970 to 2020. For more than half a century, the quest to hold schools and educators accountable for academic achievement has relied almost exclusively on standardized assessment. The theory of change embedded in almost all test-based accountability programs held that assessment with stipulated consequences could lead to major improvements in schools. This was accomplished politically by proclaiming lofty goals of attaining universal proficiency and closing achievement gaps, which repeatedly failed to materialize. But even after very clear disappointments, no other policy framework has emerged to challenge its hegemony. The American public today has little confidence in institutions to improve the quality of goods and services they provide, especially in the public sector. As a consequence, many Americans continue to believe that accountability remains a vital necessity, even if educators and policy scholars disagree.

Build equity, join justice: a paradigm for school belonging

New York, NY : Norton Professional Books, 2023.

Subjects: Educational change. Educational equalization. School management and organization. Social justice and education.

Summary: Educators all over the country are waking to a collective realization: The hope and compassion they have for their students is not enough to counteract the inequitable policies and practices of the school system. Students and communities who have been historically disenfranchised along lines of race and disability continue to face predictable barriers to opportunity and independence. In Build Equity, Join Justice, the authors present a new path forward that leads away from deficit-focused policies and toward strengths-based practices. The authors' ten equity-advancing principles, based on the groundbreaking work of the SWIFT Education Center in multiple school districts, are designed to address the learning needs and social concerns of all students without requiring them or their advocates to "ask permission" to be included. Complete with practical tools and reflective activities throughout, this book empowers educators at every level to transform their schools into equity-advancing, justice-centered institutions.

L2 vocabulary acquisition, knowledge and use: new perspectives on assessment and corpus analysis

Place of publication: European Second Language Association, 2013.

Subjects: English language--Study and teaching--Foreign speakers. Vocabulary--Study and teaching.

Summary: This book is intended for researchers and students in the field of second language (L2) acquisition. The book discusses L2 vocabulary acquisition, knowledge and use, and examines them from the perspectives of assessment and corpus analysis. The chapters also address some additional central research issues: the role of word frequency in the input, the difference between single words and multi-word units, and the distinction between vocabulary of oral and written language. The first three chapters of the book present critical reviews of different aspects of vocabulary acquisition. The other four chapters contain empirical studies that relate to the central themes of the book. The data in the studies draw on a variety of source and target languages: English, French, Italian, Swedish, Hebrew and Japanese.

A guide to detracking math courses: the journey to realize equity and access in K-12 mathematics education

Thousand Oaks, CA : Corwin, 2023.

Subjects: Ability grouping in education. Educational acceleration. Mathematics--Study and teaching. Track system (Education).

Summary: Acceleration and tracking are not the same thing. Tracking sorts students into qualitatively different pathways, where some are and some are not on track to go to a four year institution - where the "smart kids" get treated as those to preference and accelerate and the "average kids" or "low kids" are left to lag, or to fend and fight based on their own community's and family's resilience and understanding of institutional education. We as authors believe that the literature of tracking and acceleration are conflated. Tracking does harm, and acceleration can provide access if the classes are kept as heterogeneous as possible. Educators, journalists, researchers, parents, and activist groups need to stop conflating these terms, and treating them as synonymous.

What's eating you?:

Oakland, CA : Instant Help Books, 2008.

Subjects: Cognitive therapy for teenagers. Eating disorders in adolescence.

Summary: Living in a culture obsessed with body size and shape, it can be hard to feel good about the way you look. But eating disorders caused by unrealistic body image ideals create much larger problems-diminished self-confidence, unhealthy eating and exercising habits, and an inability to see yourself as a person rather than a number on the scale. This workbook takes aim at the motivations behind your relationship with food and helps you to better understand how your need to control what you eat can end up controlling you. As you complete the worksheets in

What's Eating You, you'll learn more about the beliefs and experiences that contribute to your disorder. Each worksheet includes questions and exercises targeting the cultural myths, perfectionism, stress, and lack of self-confidence that are often at the heart of a dysfunctional relationship with food. Once these issues are addressed, you'll be able to gather the strength you need to make peace with your body, exude confidence, and live a healthy life.

Assessing and diagnosing speech therapy needs in school: pedagogical diagnostics in theory and practice

Abingdon, Oxon, UK : Routledge, 2023.

Subjects: Speech disorders in children--Diagnosis. Speech therapy for children.

Summary: This book is a unique text that offers practical guidance in pedagogical diagnosis of speech and communication difficulties within educational settings. It outlines theoretical assumptions of the diagnosis process and presents hands-on solutions for pedagogical and speech therapy. Underpinned by theoretical knowledge and written by experienced practitioners, the book equips its readers with tools to understand the diagnostic process and make accurate diagnoses based on each child's individual circumstances. It starts by clearly distinguishing between pedagogy and speech therapy and outlines issues and theoretical considerations in diagnosing these disorders. To contextualize the theoretical observations, it goes on to present case studies, and touches upon crucial topics including readiness to start education, tendency toward aggressive behavior, aphasia and hearing loss.

Abnormal child psychology. Sixth edition

Boston, MA : Cengage Learning, 2016.

Subjects: Child psychiatry. Child psychopathology. Children. Mental illness. Psychology, Pathological.

Summary: This edition has been organized and updated to reflect DSM-5 categories, as well as dimensional approaches to classification and evidence-based assessment and treatment. Accessible to a broad range of readers, the book traces the developmental course of each disorder. It also shows how child psychopathology involves biological, psychological, and sociocultural factors interacting with a child's environment. Case histories, case examples, and first-person accounts are at the heart of the book, illustrating the categorical and dimensional approaches used to describe disorders and bringing life to the theories discussed. The authors also consistently illustrate how troubled children behave in their natural settings: homes, schools, and communities.

Make retiring easy: how to create the best retirement life for your clients

Markham, ON : 10-10-10 Publishing, 2023.

Subjects: Finance, Personal. Retirement--Planning.

Summary: When it comes to thinking about retirement, most people think from two perspectives, namely, the financial perspective and the perspective of how their life is today. Although these two perspectives are very important, they can sometimes be insufficient for many business and professional clients. Poier has created a system that enables you to look at retirement from an additional 30 perspectives. He calls his system the Philosophy of Retirement. The Philosophy of Retirement is a more encompassing way to think about and plan for retirement. It is based on 7 principles largely derived from the personal growth industry. Each principle and perspective helps you to uncover the potential being offered to you by your retirement. Each principle and perspective helps you to generate thoughts and ideas as to what is possible in retirement. Each principle and perspective helps you to gain clarity and direction for your retirement. Each principle and perspective empowers you to create a vision or mental image for the best life you are capable of experiencing in retirement and the accompanying Retirement Life Plan® which is your blueprint to make it happen.

Thinking in bets: making smarter decisions when you don't have all the facts

New York, NY : Portfolio/Penguin, 2019.

Subjects: Making decisions. Management games.

Summary: Annie Duke, a former World Series of Poker champion turned business consultant, draws on examples from business, sports, politics, and (of course) poker to share tools anyone can use to embrace uncertainty and make better decisions. For most people, it's difficult to say "I'm not sure" in a world that values and, even, rewards the appearance of certainty. But professional poker players are comfortable with the fact that great decisions don't always lead to great outcomes and bad decisions don't always lead to bad outcomes. By shifting your thinking from a need for certainty to a goal of accurately assessing what you know and what you don't, you'll be less vulnerable to reactive emotions, knee-jerk biases, and destructive habits in your decision making. You'll become more confident, calm, compassionate and successful in the long run.

The power of positive leadership: how and why positive leaders transform teams and organizations and change the world

Hoboken, NJ : Wiley, 2017.

Subjects: Employee motivation. Leadership. Organizational change.

Summary: In this book, the author gathers the insights from all of his bestselling fables to bring you the definitive guide to positive leadership. Great leaders understand that people drive the numbers, not the other way around; to win, you must win with people--and this book shows you how. It all begins with your decision to become a positive leader, and the understanding that leadership is not just about what you can do, but what you can inspire, encourage, and empower others to do. You'll learn to bring out the best in each of your employees by sharing the best within you; instead of running over people to achieve your goals, invite them on board--together, you can achieve more than you ever thought possible. Difficult times call for leaders who are up for the challenge.

Resilience: 50 Indigenous art cards and teaching guide [kit]

Winnipeg, MB : Mentoring Artists for Women's Art, 2019.

Subjects: Art, Canadian. Indigenous art. Indigenous Peoples in Canada. Women artists.

Summary: This boxed set that contains 50 full-colour, 8" x 10" reproductions of contemporary Indigenous art and a bilingual (English/French) teaching guide, is full of ideas on how to use the art cards to animate discussions and inspire activities in all subjects, from kindergarten to grade 12. Images by 50 First Nations, Inuit and Métis women artists embody the multitude of connections and contradictions that constitute contemporary Indigenous identities. Most often, resilience is narrowly defined in the dictionary as the ability to recover from and cope with adversity. However, long before the European invasion of the continent, resilience was a central tenet within Indigenous traditional knowledge and customary practices, and it still is. For these Indigenous women artists, resilience is embodied as endurance, adaptability and sovereignty.

Art education for a sustainable planet: embracing ecopedagogy in K-12 classrooms

New York, NY : Teachers College Press, 2023.

Subjects: Art--Study and teaching (Elementary). Art--Study and teaching (Secondary). Environmentalism in art.

Summary: Explore how art education can contribute to a more just and sustainable planet. Making the case that ecopedagogy and eco-art can transform and enrich art education, Bertling introduces these two burgeoning movements and then outlines how they can be infused into K-12 art education. Seven innovative curricular strands are presented to help art teachers embrace natural cycles and processes, envision alternative states and ways of being, restore ecosystems, and empower communities. These strands weave together specific contemporary eco-artworks, cultural and environmental philosophies, and art education methods. Reflective questions, innovative curriculum frameworks, and other resources are provided to support teachers in enacting these inspiring curricular ideas for better social and ecological futures. Curricular themes include attentiveness, relationality, co-creation, consumption, progress, cultural desire, identity stories, restoration, and coalitions. This accessible, full-color text is the first of its kind to provide practical guidance and concrete strategies for educators interested in enacting ecological art instruction.

Decolonizing sport

Halifax, NS : Fernwood Publishing, 2023.

Subjects: Decolonization. Indigenous athletes--Canada. Indigenous Peoples--Games. Indigenous Peoples--Recreation. Racism in sports. Sports--History. Sports--Social aspects.

Summary: This book tells the stories of sport colonizing Indigenous Peoples and of Indigenous Peoples using sport to decolonize. Spanning several lands — Turtle Island, the US, Australia, Aotearoa/New Zealand and Kenya — the authors demonstrate the two sharp edges of sport in the history of colonialism. Colonizers used sport, their own and Indigenous recreational activities they appropriated, as part of the process of dispossession of land and culture. Indigenous mascots and team names, hockey at residential schools, lacrosse and many other examples show the subjugating force of sport. Yet, Indigenous Peoples used sport, playing their own games and those of the colonizers, including hockey, horse racing and fishing, and subverting colonial sport rules as liberation from colonialism.

Sentence models for creative writing: a practical resource for teaching writing

Melton, UK: John Catt Educational Ltd., 2023.

Subjects: Creative writing--Study and teaching. English language--Sentences--Study and teaching.

Summary: Teaching at sentence level is essential to improve writing. Knowing this, I desperately searched for a book packed full of sentence models that I could use to inspire my students. On discovering that no such book existed, I spent the next year poring over hundreds and hundreds of books to tap into the magic formula of what makes a great sentence. I sorted all these fantastic sentence structures into the domains through which we write stories: action, setting, character, feelings, physical effects, thoughts, the senses, and dialogue. This book contains hundreds of those sentence models. The sentences can be used as creative writing exercises, inspiration for your exemplary text, or ideas for writing lessons. This book will reveal the magic formula behind great writing and give you a secret window into how this writing is created.

Toronto, ON : Owlkids Books, 2023.

Subjects: Bashfulness in children--Juvenile fiction. Beavers--Juvenile fiction. Cousins--Juvenile fiction. Gratitude--Juvenile fiction. Individual differences--Juvenile fiction. Missing persons--Juvenile fiction. Picture books for children.

Summary: Today, Amik is expecting her beaver cousins for a special visit, and she can't wait to show them her home. But as the visitors arrive, Amik suddenly realizes that her little sister, Nishiime, has disappeared.

Where could she have gone? As Amik shows her cousins some of her favorite haunts, the reader also learns how beavers help all the other animals in the forest: they cut down poplar trees so deer have easier access to the leaves, they create canals in streambeds that fish need to swim in during the winter months, and they build dams that form shallow pools for otters to swim in with their babies. Along the way, each animal shows its gratitude by saying "Meegwetch" (thank you) to Amik. Meanwhile, Nishiime, who can be seen hiding in the illustrations throughout the story, finally appears, explaining that she was feeling scared and shy about meeting other beavers from far away. It doesn't take long until Nishiime is comfortable with her cousins, asking many questions and planning how she will one day visit them.

Weird rules to follow

Victoria, BC: Orca Book Publishers, 2022.

Subjects: Best friends--Juvenile fiction. Friendship--Juvenile fiction. Indigenous Peoples--Canada--Juvenile fiction. Nineteen eighties--Juvenile fiction. Prince Rupert (B.C.)--Juvenile fiction.

Summary: In the 1980s, the coastal fishing town of Prince Rupert is booming. There is plenty of sockeye salmon in the nearby ocean, which means the fishermen are happy and there is plenty of work at the cannery. Eleven-year-old Mia and her best friend, Lara, have known each other since kindergarten. Like most tweens, they like to hang out and compare notes on their crushes and dream about their futures. But even though they both live in the same cul-de-sac, Mia's life is very different from her non-Indigenous, middle-class neighbor. Lara lives with her mom, her dad and her little brother in a big house, with two cars in the drive and a view of the ocean. Mia lives in a shabby wartime house that is full of relatives--her churchgoing grandmother, binge-drinking mother and a rotating number of aunts, uncles and cousins. Even though their differences never seemed to matter to the two friends, Mia begins to notice how adults treat her differently, just because she is Indigenous. Teachers, shopkeepers, even Lara's parents--they all seem to have decided who Mia is without getting to know her first.

A garden in my hands

New York : Alfred A. Knopf, 2023.

Subjects: East Indian Americans--Juvenile fiction. Henna (Dye)--Juvenile fiction. Mehndi (Body painting)--Juvenile fiction. Mothers and daughters--Juvenile fiction. Picture books for children.

Summary: There's a wedding tomorrow! And one little girl sits patiently while her mother tenderly applies intricate, delicate henna designs on her hands. As she does, she shares family stories -- about weddings, monsoons, and ancestors long gone. The little girl must be careful to protect her hands as the henna dries -- one smudge could ruin a story! After a whole night of anticipation, when the flakes are washed away, what will they reveal?

The circle

Toronto, ON : Hamish Hamilton, 2023.

Subjects: Families--Fiction. Intergenerational relations--Fiction. Juvenile detention--Fiction. Métis--Fiction. Restorative justice--Fiction. Siblings--Fiction.

Summary: The day that Cedar Sage Stranger has been both dreading and longing for has finally come: her sister Phoenix is getting out of prison. The effect of Phoenix's release cascades through the community. M, the young girl whom she assaulted, is triggered by the news. Her mother, Paulina, is worried and her cousin is angry--all feel the threat of Phoenix's release. When Phoenix is seen lingering outside the school to catch a glimpse of her son, Sparrow, the police get a call to file a report--but the next thing they know, she has disappeared. Amid accusations and plots for revenge, past grievances become a poor guide in a moment of danger, and the clumsy armature of law enforcement is no match for the community. Cedar and her and Phoenix's mother, Elsie, continue down different paths of healing, while everyone in their lives form a circle around the chaos, the calm within the storm, and the beauty in the darkness.

Indigenous continent: the epic contest for North America

New York< NY : Liveright Publishing Corporation, 2022.

Subjects: Indigenous Peoples--North America--Government relations--1789-1869. Indigenous Peoples--North America--History. Indigenous Peoples--North America.

Summary: There is an old, deeply rooted story about America that goes like this: Columbus "discovers" a strange continent and brings back tales of untold riches. In this book, historian Pekka Hämäläinen presents a sweeping counternarrative that shatters the most basic assumptions about American history. Shifting our perspective away from Jamestown, Plymouth Rock, the Revolution, and other well-trodden episodes on the conventional timeline, he depicts a sovereign world of Native nations whose members, far from helpless victims of colonial violence, dominated the continent for centuries after the first European arrivals. Hämäläinen ultimately contends that the very notion of "colonial America" is misleading, and that we should speak instead of an "Indigenous America" that was only slowly and unevenly becoming colonial. The evidence of Indigenous defiance is apparent today in the hundreds of Native nations that still dot the United States and Canada.

Sterritt, Angela

Unbroken: my fight for survival, hope, and justice for Indigenous women and girls
Vancouver, BC : Greystone Books, 2023.

Subjects: Canada--Race relations. Gitksan Indians--Biography. Indigenous peoples in Canada. Indigenous women--Crimes against--British Columbia. Indigenous women--Violence against--British Columbia. Investigative reporting--British Columbia. Missing persons--British Columbia. Murder--Investigation--British Columbia. Sterritt, Angela. Women journalists--Canada--Biography.

Summary: As a Gitksan teenager navigating life on the streets, Angela Sterritt wrote in her journal to help her survive and find her place in the world. Now an acclaimed journalist, she writes for major news outlets to push for justice and to light a path for Indigenous women, girls, and survivors. In her brilliant debut, Sterritt shares her memoir alongside investigative reporting into cases of missing and murdered Indigenous women in Canada, showing how colonialism and racism led to a society where Sterritt struggled to survive as a young person, and where the lives of Indigenous women and girls are ignored and devalued. But most importantly, she proves that the strength and brilliance of Indigenous women is unbroken, and that together, they can build lives of joy and abundance.

Together forever in the clouds: commemorating the RCAF air disaster, September 15, 1946, Estevan, Saskatchewan

Ottawa, ON: Borealis Press, 2021.

Subjects: Aircraft accidents--Saskatchewan--Estevan. Canada.--Royal Canadian Air Force--Airmen--Accidents. Estevan (Sask.)--Biography.

Summary: This book commemorates the RCAF Air Disaster, September 15, 1946, Estevan, Saskatchewan, in which 21 RCAF airmen died. The book recounts the events of the disaster, the mass funeral, and biographies of each of the 21 men, with comments from relatives, letters, and so on. Background: Great Britain had borrowed hundreds of training aircraft from the United States during the war under the 1941 lend-lease agreement. In 1946, the time had come to return these aircraft to their rightful owners in the United States. Royal Canadian Air Force pilots and ground crews were commissioned to complete this task. They flew the planes from Estevan to Fargo, North Dakota, as well as to the air force base in Minot, North Dakota. Twenty-one airmen—twenty pilots and one mechanic—boarded a Dakota to returning from their last mission of the war for the short flight from Minot to Estevan, when the plane crashed in Estevan.

Celebrating Black history month [DVD]

Rancho Palos Verdes, C Wonderscape Entertainment, LLC, 2023.

Subjects: African American History Month--Juvenile films. African Americans--History--Juvenile films.

Summary: Learn all about why and how we celebrate Black History Month. Who was Carter G. Woodson? How was his research and documentation of Black history beyond their enslavement in the United States important to Black people then and now? Why did history books, newspapers, newsreels and movies historically record and present only negative stereotypes of Blacks, if any representation at all? How did celebrating Black history inspire recent great Black achievers like Barack Obama, Thurgood Marshall, and Ketanji Brown-Jackson? The answers to all these questions and more are covered in depth with detailed graphics, diagrams and exciting video that reinforce important concepts.
